(plural: polar bears | poh-ler-bair | 'pou lər bæər)

The Polar Bear (Ursus Maritimus) is a hyper carnivorous mammal and a member of the Ursidae family. Polar bears are native to the arctic circle and are the largest bear species and land carnivore. Polar bears are born on land but spend most of their time searching for and hunting seals on the sea ice. Polar bears are not territorial and spend much of their adult lives alone. Groups of polar bears are sloth or sleuth; male bears are known as boars, females as sows, and the young as cubs.

Interesting Fact: Polar Bears are known to engage in same-sex relationships and behaviours, typically male-male.
